

Duns Extra Care Scheme

Trust are an organisation providing housing, support and care services to the people of Scotland. They have almost 50 years experience and are one of the largest providers, with over 3,600 homes offering independence and choice.

At Buckingham Interiors, we were thrilled to partner with Trust to design and furnish their new development, Duns. Consisting of 19 amenity bungalows and 30 extra care flats, residents have the choice to live independently, or utilise the support services, restaurant and social activities available.

This exciting new project involved us designing the full scheme which included; the communal lounge, dining room, reception and various staff offices, corridors on two floors, laundry, guest rooms and assisted bathrooms. For this scheme, we created an interior design which incorporated a Scottish theme, with traditional checked fabrics and prints. We installed artwork around the home based on the local community, including landmarks and vintage photographs of Duns to add a conversation piece to the design.

The design included thoughtfully selected flooring and paint colours to create a cohesive palette to flow through the premises. We began building upon our vision, adding furniture, window coverings and accessories that emitted a classic and timeless feel. For the finishing touches, we installed thoughtfully selected artwork, which we believe the future residents will love!

Our full project management service involved our staff being able to liaise with contractors on site, and arrange for an efficient, on time, on budget installation. Trust Housing found the entire process with Buckingham Interiors excellent, and were impressed with the level of professionalism held by our delivery team.

"We are delighted with the outcome of working with Buckingham Interiors on our scheme. Their project management was faultless and the process moved along seamlessly at a time where communications and usual procedures were impacted. We would highly recommend their services. Our residents will love the traditional features, particularly the fantastic artwork chosen!"
